From a series of MS. notes on the titlepage and following leaf, it appears that this volume originally belonged to the Princess Palatine Elizabeth, daughter of James I., and was left behind her at Prague on her flight from that city, November, 1620, when it fell into the hands of a Spaniard named Verdugo. At the recapture of Prague by the Swedes, 1648, it was recovered by a German of the name of Klee, who restored it to John Philip Frederick, son of the princess.

R. FEW MS. NOTES. Opera...Petri oliuerii et Johannis mauditier, Rothomagi*, 1502. fol. C. 35. i. 4.

Without pagination. Sig. A-B iv., in eights; a-h, in eights; i, in ten; k-q, in eights; r, in ten; A-K, in eights; F-G, in sixes; H, in eight; I-K, in sixes; L-M, in eights; N-P, in sixes. The title has beneath it a woodcut representing the combat between St. George and the Dragon, and on the verso a table of feast-days. Then follow the calendar and preliminary matter, which with the titlepage occupy the first 11 leaves. The initial itself then commences on sig. a 1, which is enclosed in an ornamental border with a woodcut of the elevation, the front being represented by the form of a shield. On the verso of 11b is a woodcut representing the Crucifixion, and on the recto of 12b, another representing the first Person of the Trinity, each surrounded by an ornamental border and occupying the entire page. On the recto of sig. m is a woodcut representing the Resurrection of our Lord, and on the recto of sig. n is another in four compartments, representing respectively Apostles, Martyrs, Doctors and Confessors, and Virgins. The entire work, with the exception of the title, calendar, acclamatorium, and eulogium, is printed in double columns; the device of the printer being on the verso of the last leaf. The running title, rubrics, and initials are printed in red ink. The woodcut and border on sig. a 1, and the woodcut on 11b, are from the same block as those in the first edition of the Salisbury Missal printed at Rouen in 1492.

C. 35. l. 3, 4.

Vol. 1, or the "Pars Hymnalis," is in two pts., of which the following is the collation. Pt. 1, fol. 1-248, sig. a-hh; pt. 2, fol. 1-6, sig. +; pt. 3, fol. 1-192, sig. a-v; pt. 4, fol. 1-50, sig. A-F; pt. 5, fol. 1-78, sig. A-K. Vol. 2, or the "Pars Estivalis," is also in 5 pts. Pt. 1, fol. 1-71, sig. a-i; pt. 2, fol. 1-6, sig. +; pt. 3, fol. 1-192, sig. a-v; pt. 4, fol. 1-50, sig. A-F; pt. 5, fol. 1-180, sig. A-BB. On the titlepage of each volume there is a large woodcut, with a border, which is repeated on the verso of the last leaf in each vol. At the foot of this woodcut on the last leaf of vol. 2, there are the words: "Ynscula Indictar Lincolnii a Francisco byrckman." Vol. 1 of this copy is on VELLUM, vol. 2 is on PAPER. Vol. 1 is without pt. 2, which contains the Calendar; pt. 3—the Psalter; and pt. 4—the "Communio Sanctorum." These, however, are in substance the same as the Calendar, Psalter, and "Communio Sanctorum" which appear in vol. 2. The first pt. of vol. 1 is imperfect: wanting fol. 144, 145, 196, 197, 205, 209, and 208. Vol. 2 appears to want a leaf after fol. 71 of pt. 1—probably only a blank leaf, or one containing a woodcut without text.

C. 35. a. 5.

Imperfect; wanting 79 leaves. Commencing with the calendar, printed in black and red, each month occupying a page. The first and last leaves are wanting. The page on which the month of May comes has the sig. ii in red. Sig. c and v, each in eight, all wanting; sig. e in eight, wanting the first, third to sixth, and last; sig. d and e are each in eight; sig. f in eight; sig. g in eight, the first and last three wanting; sig. h in eight; sig. i in eight, wanting the two first and last two; sig. k in eight, wanting the first; sig. l in eight, wanting the last; sig. m and n each in eight; sig. o in eight, wanting the third and sixth; sig. p in eight, wanting the fourth and last two; sig. q, r, s, t, v, each in eight, all wanting. Each signature, as far as leaves contained, is marked on the first and third leaf only; p sig. is crosswisely marked gr., and l, o, i, s. There is an engraved border round each page, except the calendar, printed from four blocks, and corresponding with the borders in the volume of PRAYERS (The Alman O's, etc.) printed by Caxton and bearing his name; there are also small wood engravings indented in the letter-press, and a larger one occupies, with the border and one line of letter-press, "Hic incipunt vigilie mortuorum." The whole of the verso of the sixth leaf of sig. l. It is the same as that given at p. 102, vol. 2 of Dibdin's edition of Ames' "Typographical Antiquities." The type is the same as that used for the rubrics of the edition of the "Liber Festivus," without date, at the end of which occur the words, "Caxton me fecit fecit." There are 22 lines in a page; the initials of paragraphs were left blank, and have been filled in by the rubricator. There is an intention of the Trinity in English on the verso of the sixth leaf of sig. l, and other phrases in English scattered on the following leaves.

Sixty-six leaves, with 23 lines to a full page. Register, sig. a-m, in eight. The pages are surrounded with arabesque borders representing flowers, birds, etc. In this copy the illustrations are coloured and the initials gilt. It was presented by Arthur, Prince of Wales, son of Henry VII., King of England, to Thomas Poynts, as appears from the following inscription on the last leaf, verso, below the letter-press: "Iste liber constat Thomæ poynts Armigeri pro corpore illius regis Anglie henrici vij. Ex Dono Dni Arthuri Serenissimi principis Wallie: Ducis Cornubie: Comitibus chestrie et ceteris;" and below this is the Prince's autograph, "Arthur le prince." The Calendar contains obituaries of several members of the Poynts family. At the bottom of the first leaf appears the autograph "C. Somer Set," probably that of Sir Charles Somerset, afterwards Earl of Worcester.

Without pagination. Next after the titlepage is the calendar on six leaves, commencing sig. 87 r.; after which is a leaf containing the "Benedictio Salis et aqua," etc.
The missal itself then commences, on sig. a i, which is enclosed in an ornamental border, with a woodcut representing the elevation of the Host.
Preceding sig. a i is an illuminated woodcut, representing the first Person in the Trinity, etc. Sig. a i is enclosed within an ornamental border, and the signatures run regularly on in eighte as far as r, after which is another sig., v, also in eighte. The signatures that follow are 7-8, in eighte, and 2, P, and 6, in sixes, sig. 5 i being within an ornamental border. The initial letters are in red or black ink, and in MS., two or three of them being illuminated. The musical notation is also in MS. The entire work, with the exception of the calendar, is printed in double columns. On the recto of the last leaf, at the top of the second column, is the colophon, and on the verso the device of the printer.
